

Reference Client Company detail for reference.

Jobs Recruitment Website

What is CareerLink Recruitment Agency Co.?

CareerLink is a fictional company we are using for your project management report. In the real world, it represents a traditional, old-school headhunting and hiring agency based in Malaysia.

Before websites like JobStreet or LinkedIn became popular, companies used to hire agencies like CareerLink to find workers for them.

How Does CareerLink Work Right Now? (The Old Way)

Imagine a physical office with desks, filing cabinets full of paper, and landline phones. This is how CareerLink operates today:

1. The Client Company Needs a Worker: A company (like a bank or a supermarket) calls CareerLink and says, "We need a new Accountant."
2. Looking Through Paper: CareerLink's staff physically looks through folders and filing cabinets to find printed resumes that job seekers mailed or dropped off at their office.
3. The Phone Call: The staff calls the job seeker on the phone to ask if they are interested.
4. The Spreadsheet: The staff types the candidate's name into a basic Microsoft Excel spreadsheet to keep track of who is interviewing.
5. The Manual Email: The staff emails the bank to say, "We found an accountant for you, here is their resume file."

Why is this a Problem for CareerLink?

This old way of working creates huge problems for them:

- It is too slow: It takes days to find the right resume by hand.
- Information gets lost: Paper resumes get misplaced, and Excel files get messy when multiple staff members try to edit them at the same time.
- They lose customers: Modern companies prefer to use websites like JobStreet because it takes only a few clicks to find workers.

What is the Solution? (Your Startup's Project)

Because they are losing money and falling behind, CareerLink is hiring your young tech startup to plan a brand new website for them.

They want to move all their messy paperwork online into a single system. The website your team is planning will have three main portals:

- For Job Seekers: A webpage where regular people can log in, create a profile, and upload their PDF resumes digitally.

- For Employers: A dashboard where companies can post their job openings and see a list of applicants instantly.
- For CareerLink's Staff (Admin): A private backend system where the agency's internal recruiters can search through thousands of resumes instantly using keywords (like "Accountant" or "Python Developer") and click a button to schedule interviews.

Summary Checklist for Your Report

When you write about CareerLink in your report, keep these simple facts in mind:

- Who they are: A traditional, offline hiring agency in Malaysia.
- Their scale: Nationwide (they have offices in a few states like Selangor and Penang, but want to connect everyone using the internet).
- Their goal: To stop using paper and Excel sheets, and start using a modern website so they can work faster and compete with JobStreet.

Does this explanation help you visualize the company clearly? If you are ready, we can move on to drafting your personal parts of the report (the Team Structure and the Communication Plan)

Is CareerLink Recruitment Agency Co. similar with LinkedIn ?

Yes and no! They operate in the exact same recruitment market, but their business structures and how they interact with your software project are completely different.

To help you explain this seamlessly in your theory report, here is the direct breakdown of how CareerLink compares to LinkedIn:

1. How they are SIMILAR (The Core Function)

Both companies have the exact same end-goal: matching a job seeker with an open job vacancy. They both make money by helping corporate companies find talent and helping people find work.

2. How they are DIFFERENT (The Operational Gap)

- LinkedIn is a Social Network + Self-Service Tech Platform. Users create their own profiles, search for jobs, and talk to each other directly. LinkedIn's software is completely automated and works globally across millions of users without human staff intervention for every single job application.
- CareerLink Recruitment Agency Co. is a Traditional Headhunting Agency. They have real-world human recruiters (consultants) who manually call candidates, manually read physical resumes, and manually pitch candidates to corporate clients over the phone or email.

Why CareerLink is hiring your startup to build a website:

Right now, CareerLink operates completely offline and manually. They look at LinkedIn and realize they are falling behind.

They are hiring your startup to build a website so they can turn their traditional offline business into a modern digital platform.

In your report, you can explain that your new system will give CareerLink's human recruiters a centralized dashboard to manage candidate profiles, search resumes with keyword filters, and schedule client interviews digitally—making their traditional agency work 10 times faster.